Congratulations – You’re a Senior!

You’ve been dreaming for years about what you’ll do after you graduate, and this is the year you’ll take many critical steps to prepare for what’s “NEXT!”

Section 1 of this Guide outlines the actions you need to take this year, depending on what you want to do after high school, and Sections 2 through 8 provide important information and resources to help you take those actions.

Beginning with Section 1, look for the checklist that applies to you – based on whether you plan to:

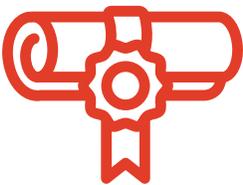

- Attend a four-year college or university to earn a bachelor’s degree
- Enroll in a community college first, and then transfer to a university after two or three years to earn a bachelor’s degree
- Obtain an associate’s degree or certificate at a community college
- Obtain a certificate or license from a Tennessee College of Applied Technology (TCAT) or other/technical/vocational school
- Enlist in the military, or
- Immediately enter the workforce

The checklist for each plan provides timelines for completing each action, but you’ll need to pay attention to specific deadlines and due dates since they vary.

Beyond Section 1, you’ll find resources and information on everything from financing your college education to writing a resume. You’ll also find helpful tools for tracking the status of your college, scholarship, and job applications, and pages for recording important information you’ll need to access regularly throughout the year.

DON’T FORGET...

Your college/career counselor is available
throughout the year to help you through every step and answer questions.

WE KNOW YOU’RE EXCITED TO GRADUATE, BUT IT’S IMPORTANT THAT YOU STAY FOCUSED THIS YEAR, BOTH ON YOUR CLASS WORK AS WELL AS THE IMPORTANT ACTIONS OUTLINED IN THIS GUIDE.

STAYING ON TRACK

Staying on Track

Wherever you plan to go after high school graduation – whether you’re headed to college, the workforce, or the military – staying on track to earn your high school diploma and knowing the next steps for your chosen path is extremely important. In this section, you will find information about high school graduation requirements and checklists that will help you stay organized and on track to reach your goals after graduation.

Start here:

Review the entire checklist for your postsecondary plan before you begin. It is helpful to see the complete picture of everything that needs to happen before you begin to tackle each step. If you’re unsure about anything on your checklist, explore the rest of this guide, which includes additional details on how to complete each step, such as applying for and paying for college. Pages in this guide are marked with a symbol to make it easy for you to find the information and resources applicable to you and your specific plan (see symbol key below). If you’re still unsure about something, your college/career counselor can help.

CHECKLISTS

Each checklist outlines specific action steps that serve as a guide to your postsecondary plan. Simply find the checklist that applies to you, then use the pages throughout this guide, coded with the matching symbol, to find the information and resources you need to successfully complete each step on your checklist.

If you plan to...

- Attend university next year
- Enroll in a community college first and then transfer to a university
- Enroll in a community college to earn an associate’s degree or a certificate
- Attend a TCAT next year

What is the Best Fit for Me?

Deciding which college to attend can be a challenge – there are so many factors to consider!

Decide what is most important to you in a college experience, along with your long-term goals and how college will play a part in achieving those goals. By visiting college web sites, talking with current and former students, and reading online reviews, try to learn as much as possible about your potential school.

Below are some things you might want to consider as you research. How would you rank order what is most important to you?

TYPE OF SCHOOL <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Two-year or four- year • Public or private • University/research institution or liberal arts college • All male, all female, or coed • Religious or secular 	STUDENT LIFE <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • On and off campus activities • Athletics • Greek life • Student organizations • Safety • Student body diversity 	LOCATION <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Urban or rural • Size of nearest city • Distance from home • Geographic setting and weather

Applying for the Tennessee Promise

To apply for the Tennessee Promise Scholarship, you must first create a student account in the TSAC Portal. Remember, if you are a dual enrollment student, you probably already have a TSAC student account. You will use the same log in information to apply for the Tennessee Promise. It is extremely important that you save your log in information for the TSAC Portal because this portal allows you to not only apply for the Tennessee Promise but also for all other scholarships from the State of Tennessee.

To create a student account for the TSAC portal:

1. Visit www.tn.gov/collegepays
2. Click the TSAC Student Portal box
3. Click “Register”
4. Enter the required information including:
 - Your first and last name exactly as it appears on your Social Security card
 - Your Social Security number
 - Your date of birth
 - Your email address

It is extremely important that all of this information is entered correctly. Please check it before submitting and do not guess your Social Security number.

Failure to provide accurate information will cause a delay in determining your scholarship eligibility or potential loss of an award.

Applying for the Tennessee Promise is not complete once a student portal account has been created.

To apply for the scholarship, you must:

1. Re-enter your Username and Password and answer the challenge question
2. Accept the “User Agreement”
3. Click the “Apply for Scholarships” button
4. Select the Tennessee Promise Scholarship and submit the online application

Tracking College Applications

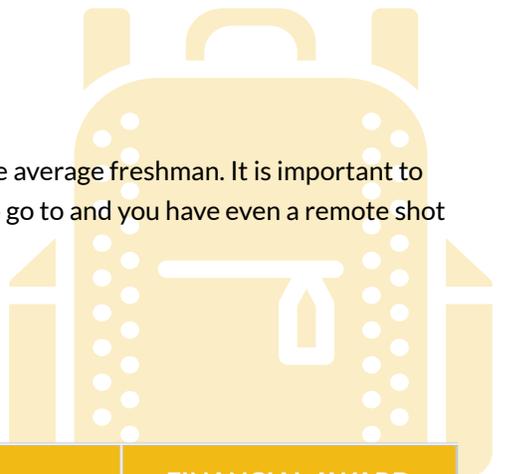

As you begin the college application process, it's a good idea to include at least one of each of the following types of choices:

Safe choice Your academic credentials fall above the school's range for the average freshman. You can be reasonably certain that you will be admitted to your safe choice school.

Realistic choice Your academic credentials fall within (or even exceed) the school's range for the average freshman. There are no guarantees, but it's not unreasonable to be accepted to several of your realistic choice schools.

Use this table to keep track of your progress on your college applications:

	APPLICATION DEADLINE (NOTE PRIORITY DEADLINE, IF APPLICABLE)	DATE YOU APPLIED	DATE YOU SENT APPLICATION PAYMENT/ WAIVER	DATE YOU REQUESTED YOUR HS TRANSCRIPT
College #1
College #2
College #3
College #4
College #5

Reach choice Your academic credentials fall below the school’s range for the average freshman. It is important to apply to reach schools. If there is a specific, selective college you really want to go to and you have even a remote shot at getting accepted, go for it.

DATE YOU REQUESTED COLLEGE TRANSCRIPT, FOR DUAL ENROLLMENT, IF APPLICABLE	DATE YOU REQUESTED TEST SCORES: AP, ACT, SAT, ETC.	RECEIVED RESPONSE - ACCEPTED YES OR NO?	FINANCIAL AWARD LETTER RECEIVED AND REVIEWED YES OR NO?

Taking or Re-Taking College Entrance Exams

The ACT and SAT are college admissions tests. Many colleges and programs use ACT or SAT scores in their admission decisions, although some do not, and some specifically require one test or the other. Check the requirements for the colleges to which you're applying. ACT scores also have an impact on scholarship eligibility (a 21 composite automatically qualifies you for the Tennessee HOPE Scholarship!).

Also, universities often use your ACT or SAT score in specific subject areas to determine freshman year course placement, particularly for math.

I already took the ACT as a junior. Should I re-take it this year?

Yes, yes, yes! Tennessee students are very fortunate – they have the opportunity to take the ACT TWICE for FREE. Sometimes, students need to take the exam two or three times to maximize their score (especially since many colleges are using the 'superscore' method.)

Superscoring is when colleges consider your highest section scores across all dates you took the SAT or ACT. This is normal; most students take the test more than once. Your school will offer the free ACT retake on one of the following dates. Ask your college/career counselor and check the date for your school below. After the two free times, here's how to decide whether you should re-take it a third time:

ACT Senior Retake Days:

- October 1, 2019
- October 15, 2019
- October 29, 2019

If other eligibility criteria are met (FAFSA, Tennessee resident, etc.)*

1. Sources: testive.com and act.org/content/dam/act/unsecured/documents/ACT-Score-Report-eBook.pdf

1. What are the scores necessary for your target schools or target scholarships?

Take a moment to research the schools you want to attend. Many schools list the average or mid-range SAT and ACT scores for their admitted students on their Web site (check the "Admissions" section). Aim to be at or above their posted average score, but keep in mind that extracurricular activities and GPA also factor into the admission decision. Use the "scholarship estimator" tools on college Web sites to figure out whether a higher score could earn you a bigger scholarship, and if so, how likely it is you could improve your score by the needed amount?

2. How many times have you already taken the test?

Although it is true that retaking the test can raise your score, after the third time taking the exam, subsequent attempts at the test are unlikely to raise your score unless you've done something drastically different to prepare. Just taking the test over and over is rather pointless if you don't change anything in between attempts.

3. Are my score expectations realistic?

Going up by three or four points on the ACT is a realistic goal with effort, especially from your first to second time taking the test. It is also important to realize that the higher your starting score is, the harder it is to get your score up with future retakes. For example, if you've already scored a 34 on the ACT and have taken the test twice already, it probably isn't necessary to take the test a third time. Also, recognize that score improvements don't come without effort.

4. How do I move forward?

If you've considered these questions and come to the conclusion that you don't want or need to retake the ACT, congratulations! Focus on completing your applications and essays, and on making a strong finish in your high school career. If you do want to retake the ACT, then pick a test date that fits your schedule and deadlines and start using the prep tools available: kahnacademy.org/sat for the SAT; actacademy.act.org for the ACT; ACT prep class during the school day; and ACT boot camps held periodically throughout the year.

National ACT Test Dates

If you choose to retake the ACT on a national test day, you will be responsible for registering for the test in advance and paying the associated fee.

Transferring from a Community College to a University

A college degree is valuable. So is your time and money. With the Tennessee Transfer programs, you can begin your college studies at a community college or similar two-year program while earning an associate degree, and rest assured that your credits will transfer to a bachelor's degree program at any public university and many private universities in Tennessee.

How do the Tennessee Transfer Pathways work?

A student who completes all of the courses listed for the selected major of a Transfer Pathway will be able to earn an associates of arts (A.A.) or an associate of science (A.S.) degree from a community college. When the student transfers to a Tennessee public or participating private college/university, the transcript will certify that the pathway has been followed. The student is guaranteed that all community college courses taken will be accepted at the college/university, and the courses will count toward completion of the particular major. If a community college student transfers to another Tennessee community college, he or she is guaranteed that all courses transfer*.

Tips and helpful advice on making your transfer experience successful:

1. Get advising from your current school and the school where you plan to transfer.
2. Register with “transfer” in mind.
3. Start planning today.
4. Meet with your current advisor to discuss future plans.
5. Review the university application process.
6. Attend new student orientation or use online orientation tools to become familiar with your new college or university.

Important Notes:

Admission to UT Knoxville is competitive. For UTK, the Pathways do not guarantee admission.*

Provided that all other admission criteria are met, individual TICUA institutions may require courses specific to their mission that do not result in additional time spent toward degree completion.*

TNTransferPathways.org

If you are planning to transfer from a community college to a four-year university, it is important to do your research and plan your pathway in advance to make sure you are taking the correct courses for transferring. www.TNTransferPathways.org has a lot of great resources to help you plan for both your future career and for a successful transfer.

On the web site, you can learn more information about career options within different academic focus areas. Begin by clicking on “Academic Focus Areas” and reviewing the list of majors provided. When you select a major, you will see more specific career information, including average salary and a list of different occupations available within that field.

For each major, you can also download curriculum files to see the courses you will need to complete for that pathway, and you can see a list of community colleges where you can start and both public and private colleges where you can complete your degree. Take some time to explore the Web site and complete the worksheet on the next page.

SECTION 3

THE FAFSA AND FINANCIAL AID

Paying for College

If you're concerned about how you're going to pay for your college or university experience, consider this:

- College might not cost as much as you think. In fact, most families overestimate the price tag.
- There is help available. Financial aid can make paying for school realistic.
- Your education is a long-term investment. On average, college graduates earn twice as much as those with high school diplomas.

In this section of the guide, you will find information about types of financial aid, how to apply for aid, and how to interpret the financial aid offers you receive.

What is Financial Aid?

Financial aid is money to help you pay for college. It may be in the form of grants, scholarships, loans, work-study programs, or a combination. The aid comes from federal and state governments, colleges and universities, banks, and private organizations.

Applying to receive financial aid is a separate process from applying for admission to a college; you have to do both. For all government aid, and much private and institutional aid, you apply using the Free Application for Federal Student Aid, or FAFSA (see the following pages in this section for more details).

PRIMARY SOURCES OF FINANCIAL AID
Grants	Grants are free money – they don't have to be repaid. Grants come from the state and federal government as well as from colleges. Generally, grants are based on financial need, which means that they are awarded based on your family's size and financial circumstances. One example of a grant is the Pell Grant from the federal government. For 2019-20, the maximum grant, which is available to students with the most financial need, was $6,195.* To earn a Pell grant, you must be a U.S. citizen or eligible noncitizen and must complete the FAFSA (Free Application for Federal Student Aid).
Scholarships	Scholarships are also free money and don't need to be repaid. Scholarships can come from a variety of places, from state and federal governments to colleges and private companies. Scholarships may be awarded based on your financial need, academic achievement, community service, athletic talent, and many other factors.
Loans	Loans are money that you borrow from a bank, government, or private lending company. A loan must be repaid with interest. Loans offered by the government often have lower interest rates and can be repaid over an extended period of time. Visit www.studentloans.gov for more information.
Work Study	Work-Study allows you to receive funds through part-time employment while you are enrolled in college and can help you pay part of your college costs. Unlike other campus jobs, students apply for Work-Study by submitting the Free Application for Federal Student Aid (FAFSA).

This amount may change every year.*

Sources of Financial Aid

Very few students get all of their financial aid for college from one source. When you are searching for financial aid, consider a wide variety of options and apply to as many programs as possible. Here are some common types of organizations that offer financial aid:

- Your College: Colleges and universities offer financial aid programs for their students. Visit the financial aid webpages of every college you are considering and apply for all of the scholarships you think you might be eligible to receive.
- The Community: Nonprofit organizations, foundations, and businesses often provide scholarships as a community service. To find these programs talk to your counselor or check out the scholarship finder on www.CollegeforTN.org.
- The Government: The Federal Government offers over $150 billion in aid each year. Likewise, Tennessee offers millions of dollars to its students. To qualify for aid from the State of Tennessee students must be a U.S. citizen or eligible non-citizen (with some exceptions), a Tennessee resident one year prior to the application deadline, and complete the FAFSA. On the next pages, you will find a description of some of the scholarships available from the State of Tennessee.

Federal Student Aid

What is federal student aid?

Federal student aid comes from the federal government—specifically, the U.S. Department of Education. It's money that helps a student pay for higher education expenses. Federal student aid covers such expenses as tuition and fees, room and board, books and supplies, and transportation. There are three main types of federal student aid: grants, work-study, and loans.

Who gets federal student aid?

Every student who meets certain eligibility requirements can get some type of federal aid, regardless of age or family income. Some of the most basic eligibility requirements are that you must:

- Demonstrate financial need, for most programs.
- Be a U.S. citizen or eligible non-citizen.
- Have a valid Social Security number.
- Register (if you haven't already) with Selective Service if you are a male between ages 18–25.
- Be enrolled or accepted for enrollment in an eligible degree or certificate program.
- Maintain satisfactory academic progress in college, career or technical school, or graduate school.

The full list of eligibility requirements is available at www.StudentAid.gov/eligibility.

How do you apply for federal student aid?

To apply for federal student aid, you must complete the Free Application for Federal Student Aid (FAFSA.) See page 40 for more information about how to file the FAFSA.

The following chart outlines the most common types of federal student aid:

After creating your FSA ID, the next step is to file your FAFSA! There are two ways that you can file your FAFSA:

1. Online at studentaid.FAFSA.ed.gov

If you need help filing the FAFSA, contact your college/career Counselor to find out when you and your family can get assistance completing the form.

When filing the FAFSA, questions often arise about dependency status, parental information, and citizenship status. Below, you will find some charts to help you answer those questions.

What is my dependency status?

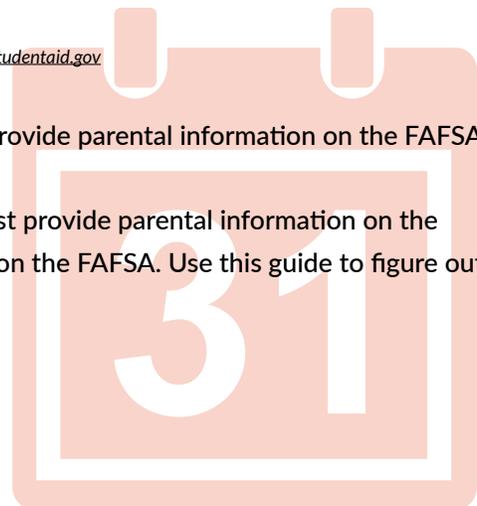

The following statements will determine your dependency status for the FAFSA. Mark any that are true.

- I was a dependent or ward of the court since turning age 13
- I have dependents (other than children or my spouse) who live with me and I provide more than half of their support
- I am married
- I am currently or I was in legal guardianship
- I am a veteran of the U.S. Armed Forces
- I am currently or I was an emancipated minor
- I was in foster care since turning age 13

If you marked any of the statements, you are independent and will not provide parental information on the FAFSA.

If none of the statements are true, you are a dependent student and must provide parental information on the FAFSA. Dependent students are required to include parent information on the FAFSA. Use this guide to figure out which parent's information to include on the FAFSA.

SAR (Student Aid Report)

What is it, how do I get one, and why is it important?

What is the SAR?

The Student Aid Report (SAR) summarizes the information you submitted on your FAFSA and provides information about financial aid eligibility based on that information.

How and when will I get my SAR?

After you submit your Free Application for Federal Student Aid (FAFSA), you'll get your personal SAR (within three days if you complete the FAFSA online; within three weeks if you mail the paper FAFSA). Whether you receive your SAR online or through the mail depends on whether you provide an email address on your FAFSA. If you provide a valid email address, you'll receive an email with instructions on how to access an online copy of your SAR. If you have an FSA ID (username and password) and your FAFSA has been processed, you can log in at www.fafsa.gov to view your SAR information regardless of how you filed the FAFSA. The school(s) you list on your FAFSA will have access to your SAR data electronically within a day after it is processed.

What information does a SAR contain (and not contain)?

The SAR won't tell you how much financial aid you'll get, but if your application is complete, an Expected Family Contribution (EFC) will display in the upper righthand corner of your SAR and your estimated Pell Grant amount will be provided. If your application is incomplete, your SAR will not include an EFC or Pell amount, but it will tell you what you need to do to resolve any issues.

The SAR also contains a four-digit Data Release Number (DRN), which appears on the first page in the upper right corner of the paper SAR and SAR Acknowledgement. On the electronic SAR, the DRN is located in the box that contains the Application Receipt Date, below the EFC. You will need the DRN if you choose to allow your college or technical school to change certain information on your FAFSA.

What am I supposed to do with my SAR?

When you get your SAR, review it carefully to make sure it's correct and complete. Take a copy of it to your college/career counselor to get help reviewing it. The school(s) you listed on your FAFSA will use SAR information to determine your eligibility for federal and state financial aid. A school may ask you to verify the accuracy of the data you provide on the FAFSA, so you need to be sure the information is correct.

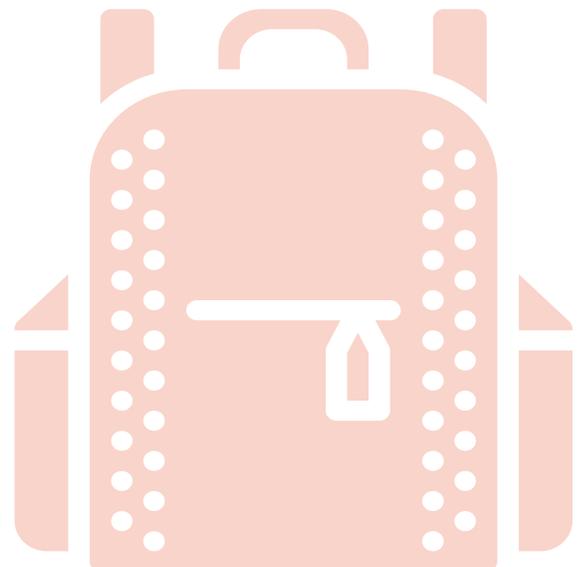

If you don't have any changes to make to the information listed on your SAR, just keep it for your records.

What if my SAR does not list an EFC?

If your EFC is blank on your SAR or if there is a "C" after the number, you need to make corrections to your FAFSA. It is extremely important that you make these corrections to your FAFSA to receive financial aid. Your SAR will provide you with details about the errors in your FAFSA.

What if there is an asterisk (*) next to my EFC?

If there is an asterisk (*) next to your EFC, this means that your FAFSA has been selected for verification. Being selected for verification is quite common. This just means that you will need to work with your college to complete a few extra steps to verify the information you provided on your FAFSA.

Sample SAR

Federal Student Aid FAFSA

Form Approved
OMB No. 1845-0001
App. Exp. 12/31/2016

Electronic Student Aid Report (SAR)

Application Receipt Date:	02/21/20XX	XXX-XX-1493 BA 03
Processed Date:	03/17/20XX	EFC: 000000 *
		DRN: 3653

The SAR summarizes the information you submitted on your 2019-20 FAFSA

Application for Federal Student Aid (FAFSA).

This is your Expected Family Contribution. The number may be all zeros, or a combination of zeros and other numbers, but if it is blank or there is a "C" after the number, you need to make corrections to your FAFSA or you won't get any aid. The details are in the body of the SAR below.

The last four digits of your social security number appear here.

Comments About Your Information

Learn about federal tax benefits for education, including the American Opportunity Tax Credit (AOTC).

Based on the information we have on record for you, your EFC is 000000. You may be eligible to receive a Federal Pell Grant and other federal student aid. Your school will use your EFC to determine your financial aid eligibility for federal grants, loans, and work-study, and possible funding from your state or school.

Being selected for verification is quite common. The asterisk after the EFC above indicates this too.

Your FAFSA has been selected for a review process called verification. Your school has the authority to request copies of certain financial documents from you and your parent(s).

There is a limit to the total amount of Federal Pell Grants that a student may receive, which is the equivalent of six school years. Once a total amount of Pell Grant eligibility has been received, a student can no longer receive Pell Grant aid.

WHAT YOU MUST DO NOW (Use the checklist below to make sure that all of your issues are resolved.)

The date of birth you reported for your first parent on your FAFSA matches the Social Security Administration's (SSA) records, but the date of birth you reported for your second parent does not match the SSA's records. Your second parent should review the date of birth in Item 67 and either confirm the date you have reported or make the necessary correction by clicking 'Make FAFSA Corrections' on the 'My FAFSA' page.

If you need to make corrections to your information, click 'Make FAFSA Corrections' on the 'My FAFSA' page. You must use your Federal Student Aid PIN to access your record online. If you need additional help with your SAR, contact your school's financial aid office or click the 'Help' icon on the FAFSA home page. If your mailing address or e-mail address changes, you can make the correction online.

Based on your EFC of 000000, you may be eligible to receive a Federal Pell Grant of up to $5,920 for the 2019-20 school year provided you have not met or exceeded the lifetime limit established for the Federal Pell Grant program.

Your Pell Grant eligibility is referenced at the bottom, if you qualify. The lower your EFC, the more money you qualify for, up to the maximum in 2019-20 of $5,920.

Although you're instructed to use the "checklist" below, it's not formatted like a checklist; read everything below this instruction very carefully and do what it says! Your FAFSA is not considered "complete" until you do.

Making Corrections on your FAFSA

After filing the FAFSA, use the following checklist and flow chart on the next page to make sure that your FAFSA is complete, does not require corrections, and that your financial information has been sent to the correct college.

Log in to the FAFSA with your FSA ID: Is your chosen college listed on your FAFSA? If not, make changes to your FAFSA to ensure that school is on your list so that your college gets your financial aid information.

Click “View or Print My Student Aid Report” and review the information: Look closely at the lines 18, 29, 30, and 70.

Line 18: Student’s legal state of residence. Make sure that you filled out that you’re a resident of Tennessee (TN) to receive state financial aid.

Line 29: Student’s grade level in 2019 - 2020. You should answer “Never attended college/1st year.” Other answers might make the system think you are student who is working on an advanced degree and may disqualify you from financial aid that is meant for students working on a certificate, diploma, associate or bachelor’s degree.

Line 30: Type of degree or certificate. Depending on the college you’ve chosen, you’ll want to select one of the following options:

- 1st bachelor’s degree (if you plan on attending a four-year university for a bachelor’s degree)
- Associate degree, general education/transfer program (if you plan on attending a community college and later transferring or if you are using Tennessee Promise towards an associate degree at a four-year university)
- Certificate/diploma, occupational/technical education program of less than two years (if you are enrolling in a TCAT, a technical school or a trade school)

Line 70: Parent’s legal state of residence. Make sure that you’ve filled out that your parents live in Tennessee, as this is important for establishing that you are a Tennessee resident for state aid and in-state tuition.

Log in to your TSAC student portal: Which college did you list on your account? If that college does not match the college you plan to attend, change it. The college listed on your TSAC student portal is the college that will receive your scholarship money for state financial aid like Tennessee Promise and the HOPE Scholarship.

Attending a community college or four-year university? Log in to your college’s student portal. This student portal is often mentioned in your acceptance letter or an email from the college. Check your portal to make sure you don’t need to submit any additional forms for your college’s financial aid office. The portal will also be where you receive information about registering for classes and orientation, so plan to check it often this summer!

Attending a TCAT or Technical School? Check your mail or call your campus to speak to financial aid. Ask them to confirm that your financial aid documents are complete during the 2019 - 2020 school year. They may be sending your information in the mail this summer, so be sure to open any mail from them and complete action items before the deadlines.

FAFSA Completion Flow Chart for Students

START

Access your SAR (Student Aid Report) by logging in to www.fasfa.gov with your FSA ID. Select the “View or Print your Student Aid Report” option at the bottom of the screen. Is there a number next to the EFC?

YES

Does the EFC number have an asterisk (*) next to it?

YES

An asterisk next to the EFC number means that you have been selected for verification.

Verification is not a mistake that you made, it is just another step in the process of receiving your full amount of financial aid.

You will need a copy of your parent’s federal income tax transcript and may need to send additional information to your college of choice.

Talk to your college’s financial aid office if you have questions about verification. Be sure to check your college’s student portal to see if any additional information or forms must be submitted before you register for classes.

NO

You have not been selected for verification.

Complete the FAFSA Finish Line checklist and make sure that you are checking your college’s student portal, your student email, and/or your mail for important enrollment information.

NO

Information is missing on your FAFSA and it is incomplete.

Review page 1 of the SAR to determine what information needs to be corrected. You will need to sign into the FAFSA with your FSA ID and select “Make FAFSA Corrections” to complete your FAFSA.

After making corrections, you will need to submit the FAFSA. If you provided an email address, another SAR will be available within three to five days online. If you did not provide an email address, a paper SAR will be mailed to your address.

Financial Aid Award Letters

After you've applied to your target schools and completed the FAFSA, you'll begin to receive financial aid award offers from each college.

You may receive your award offers in a letter through the mail or email, or online through your college student account. Review these offers carefully to ensure that you understand your potential out-of-pocket expenses. Your college/career counselor can help with that. It is also important that your parents/guardians review your award letter(s) to help you make this important decision. The financial aid offers you receive from each school you have been accepted to will vary. Your "net" or out-of-pocket cost to attend each school is likely to be an important factor in deciding which school to attend.

After you decide which school to attend, carefully respond to that school's financial aid offer; you will be asked to "accept or decline" each component of your aid package. You can accept some offers, but decline others if you won't need it. Always accept "free" money – like scholarships and grants. And, accepting work-study, if it's been offered, is a good idea. It doesn't obligate you to find and take a work-study job, but accepting it will allow you to go that route if you want to. Think carefully, and review the terms closely, before you accept any loans offered, as these must be repaid with interest.

An example of an award letter is provided on the next page.

SCHOLARSHIPS

Scholarships

Securing scholarship funds is a great way to help pay for college costs. The following pages explain what scholarships are, how they work, and how you can apply.

Many scholarships are competitive, so this section provides advice on finding those that are right for you, crafting your application essay, and submitting applications, so that you can maximize your chances of getting the award.

What is a Scholarship?

Simply put, a scholarship is money given to students to help pay for their education. Unlike loans, scholarship money does not need to be paid back. Scholarships are awarded based on many different factors:

- Academic performance (also referred to as merit)
- Financial need
- Athletic performance
- Special talents and affiliations
- And more

Most scholarships require students to submit an application. The application may require an essay, a portfolio, a letter of recommendation, nomination by a teacher or counselor, or other additional documents/creations.

What scholarships are available from the State of Tennessee?

The State of Tennessee has a variety of different scholarships available to Tennessee residents. The Tennessee Promise Scholarship is one of the most well-known, but there are a variety of other options available in the state. On pg. X-X, you will find a description of the scholarships available in the State of Tennessee.

The What, Where and How of Scholarships

While the State of Tennessee offers many different scholarship programs, you may want to consider applying for additional scholarship opportunities, especially if you plan to attend a four-year public or private university. The information on the following pages provides you with resources to search for and apply for scholarships.

Where do I find scholarships that are right for me?

Most scholarship opportunities can be found online using powerful search engines based on a personal profile you complete on the site. When you apply to some Tennessee colleges and universities, your college application also serves as a scholarship application for merit-based scholarships at those colleges. Most universities/colleges in Tennessee and across the country also administer numerous scholarships that require additional applications, so check the scholarship section of each college's web site carefully. Local organizations also provide scholarship opportunities for students. Places of worship, philanthropic organizations, schools, etc., are excellent sources of scholarships. Watch for announcements regarding local scholarships.

How do I avoid scholarship scams?

Unfortunately, there are people who prey on aspiring college students with scholarship scams.

Here are some red flags to watch for:

- Winning a scholarship that you didn't apply for
- Companies that request personal identification information, such as a Social Security number or bank account information
- Scholarships that require a fee to apply. If you're unsure about a certain company or opportunity, check with your College/Career Counselor.

Where can I search for scholarships?

Writing a Personal Statement

Many college and scholarship applications require an essay or personal statement, but it can be hard to know where to start. Here are some do's and don'ts for writing a memorable personal statement:

Choose a topic that will highlight you

- DON'T focus on the great aspects of a particular college, the amount of dedication it takes to be a doctor, or the number of extracurricular activities you took part in during high school.
- DO share your personal story and thoughts. Take a creative approach and highlight areas that aren't covered in other parts of the application, like your high school records.
- DON'T try to cover too many topics. This will make the essay sound like a resume that doesn't provide any insight into your personality.
- DO focus on one aspect of yourself so the readers can learn more about who you are. Remember that the readers must be able to find your main idea and follow it from beginning to end. Ask a parent or teacher to read just your introduction and tell you what he or she thinks your essay is about.

Show, don't tell

- DON'T simply state a fact to get an idea across, such as "I like to surround myself with people with a variety of backgrounds and interests."
- DO include specific details, examples, and reasons to develop your ideas. For the example above, describe a situation when you were surrounded by various types of people. What were you doing? With whom did you talk? What did you take away from the experience?

Use your own voice

- DON'T rely on phrases or ideas that people have used many times before. These could include statements like, "There is so much suffering in the world that I feel I have to help people." Avoid overly formal or business-like language, and don't use unnecessary words.
- DO write in your own voice. For the above example, you could write about a real experience that made you feel you had to take action.
- DON'T plagiarize. Admissions officers will be able to tell.

Ask a teacher or parent to proofread

- DON'T turn your essay in without proofreading it, and don't rely only on your computer's spell check to catch mistakes. Even the best spell check programs aren't error free.
- DO ask a teacher or parent to proofread your essay to catch mistakes. You should also ask the person who proofreads your essay if the writing sounds like you.

Writing a Stand Out Essay

Scholarship applications often require applicants to write a short (one to two page) essay in response to specific prompts. Examples include the following:

- If you had the authority to change your school in a positive way, what specific changes would you make?
- Describe how you have demonstrated leadership ability both in and out of school.
- Pick an experience from your own life and explain how it has influenced your development.

The tips below can help you get started on a standout essay. Don't forget your English teacher is a great resource.

Introduction (first paragraph)

Tip: Provide an overview of what you are going to talk about in the essay; be sure it is responsive to the essay prompt. If the essay is about you, give a brief description of your experiences, aspirations, family background, etc. Touch on why you want the scholarship.

Body (paragraph two to three)

Tip: Go into more detail on one of the topics listed in the first paragraph. For example, elaborate on your previous experiences, family and financial situation, volunteer work, employment, academic career, future goals, college plans, etc.

Conclusion (last paragraph)

Tip: Close your essay with a wrap-up of why you should be considered for the scholarship and how your goals match those of the organization. Avoid stating, "In conclusion..." and don't regurgitate what you wrote in earlier paragraphs.

Keep in mind that all scholarship and college admission applications are different, so you will have to craft your essay to meet specific requirements and the expectations of the scholarship awarding organization. Look closely at the question or prompt on the application and research the organization giving the scholarship so that you can tailor your essay.

Remember to be yourself!
Essays serve as a glimpse into how your mind works and how you view the world.

Proofread and Revise Your Essay

It is important to take the time to proofread and revise your essay before submitting. To make your essay truly stand out, ask yourself the following questions, adapted from Rebecca Joseph, PhD:

1. Does your essay start with a story that hooks us in from the first paragraph?
2. If you start in the past, do you get to the present very quickly? Scholarship committees want to know about the recent you. Great essays can start more recently and weave in past events.
3. If you are writing about your community or family, do you share about yourself or are you more focused on telling the stories of other people? Remember that scholarship committees want to learn about you, not just those around you.
4. Do you only tell one story and not try to tell your entire life story?
5. If you are writing about an obstacle or challenge you've overcome, do you get to how you have responded and made a difference in the life of your community by the second or third paragraph of the essay? Scholarship committees want to know who are you and how you make an impact drawing upon your obstacles or challenges.
6. Do you have a metaphor that goes through the entire piece? Does this metaphor reveal who you are and what you offer to potential colleges? You can embed this metaphor throughout your piece.
7. Can I close my eyes and picture your story? Does it make you sound unique and not like anyone else applying? Can I see your leadership and initiative and the power of what you will offer a college campus?
8. Endings - Do you end with a bang? Do you make it clear by the end you have goals and aspirations that drive you? Do you end leaving the reader with the desire to get to know you more?

Letters of Recommendation

Many of your applications – to schools, for scholarships and jobs – will require that you provide letters of recommendation. A teacher, counselor, coach, supervisor or any other adult who will be able to share with the selection committee why you deserve to be chosen may write these letters.

Consider someone who can discuss your personal character, strengths and challenges; someone who knows you and has experience interacting with you. If you need more than one letter for the same application, select individuals familiar with different aspects of your life to write them (e.g., one teacher, your supervisor at work, and your soccer coach.)

Who might you ask for a letter of recommendation?

Reference Name	Email	Phone Number

Always ask the individual ahead of time if they would be able to write a recommendation letter for you. You do not want to miss an application deadline because the person writing your letter was too busy. Give them at least two weeks' notice (three to four is even better.)

Provide the individual with a list of your honors, awards, athletic involvement, community service, and academic record as well as any other pertinent information you would like included in the letter. Giving the individual a copy of your resume is an efficient way to provide that information. If a specific form or format is required for the letter of recommendation, include that information in your request. (See the next page for a sample request form.)

Provide the individual(s) with the necessary forms, addresses, and/or stamped, addressed envelopes.

Follow up with the individual to ensure they don't need any additional information from you.

Always write a thank you note to anyone who writes a letter for you. Letters of recommendation take time, and people put a lot of thought and effort into them. You do not want to take them for granted.

SECTION 5

PURSUING A FUTURE IN THE MILITARY

MILITARY SERVICE

If you are interested in joining a branch of the U.S. military immediately after high school graduation, this section includes resources that may be helpful as you prepare to enlist. Time in the military can teach you a valuable trade, prepare you for a life-long career serving your country, or simply give you time to decide what you want to do next. It can be a valuable experience with good benefits and structure.

Consider speaking with relatives or friends who have served or are currently serving. Additionally, recruiters can tell you about the different branches and help with answering this question.

Before you become part of the military, there is one test that you'll need to take - the ASVAB. There are websites that can help to prepare you for that. In the coming pages you'll find references for these and other helpful websites.

General Information About Enlisting and the ROTC Alternative

Military Recruiters

A military recruiter can help answer questions about service, providing a positive but realistic assessment of opportunities. A recruiter's job is to find qualified candidates for his or her respective service and provide the candidates with information about – and reasons for – joining the military. Students interested in military service are advised to talk with a recruiter for the branch of the military in which they are interested. Your high school college/career counselor can tell you when military recruiters will be at your high school.

Types of Military Service

<https://www.todaysmilitary.com/joining/types-of-military-service>

Active Duty (Full-Time)

“Active-duty service members are full-time members of the Military, living on base or in military housing and immersed in military culture. After attending boot camp, they are stationed at a base either domestically or overseas. Active-duty terms typically last two to six years.”

Reserve (Part-Time)

“Each active-duty branch of the Military has a Reserve component under their command, which is available for active-duty deployment in times of war or national emergency. Reservists are part-time service members, which allows them time to pursue a civilian career or college education while simultaneously serving their country. Members of the Reserve attend boot camp and are required to participate in training drills one weekend a month as well as a two-week program each year.”

National Guard (Part-Time)

“The National Guard consists of the Army National Guard and the Air National Guard. The Guard's main focus is on homeland security and humanitarian relief. In addition to training drills one weekend a month and two full weeks per year.

National Guard units assist communities in their state during emergencies like storms, floods, fires and other natural disasters. National Guard members are part-time service members, which allows them time to pursue a civilian career or college education while simultaneously serving their country.”

ROTC Programs – An Alternative to Enlistment

ROTC stands for Reserve Officer Training Corps. It's a college program offered at over 1,700 colleges and universities across the United States that prepares young adults to become officers in the U.S. military. In exchange for a paid college education and a guaranteed post-college career, cadets commit to serve in the military after graduation. Each service branch has its own take on ROTC, and universities that offer ROTC may offer it for one, some, or all of the military branches. More information about ROTC is available on these Web sites:

todaysmilitary.com/training/rotc

bestcolleges.com/resources/rotc-programs

ASVAB

The Armed Services Vocational Aptitude Battery (ASVAB) is a multiple-choice test, administered by the United States Military Entrance Processing Command, and used to determine qualification for enlistment in the United States Armed Forces. The ASVAB also qualifies individuals for the mission occupation specialty, job, or career they will pursue in the military in addition to enlistment bonuses.

Just like any other test, it is recommended that students prepare for the ASVAB. Learn more about the ASVAB, and how to prepare for it, by visiting the sites below.

Delayed Entry Program

The Delayed Entry Program (DEP), also called the Delayed Enlistment Program (or the Future Soldiers Program in the Army), is a program in which individuals who want to enlist in the United States Armed Forces are placed before they ship out to basic training or “boot camp.” Students who plan to join the military immediately following high school will likely enlist through the DEP.

Military Career Opportunities

Jobs in the military vary in the type of work as well as level of responsibility, yet each job is essential to accomplishing the overall mission of defending our country.

Boot Camp Preparation

Going in physically and mentally strong to basic training will provide you with the confidence you need to successfully complete the training. If you wait until the first day of basic training to start preparing, you will fight an uphill battle. The requirements and training for each branch of the military are different. SECTION 6

JOINING THE WORKFORCE

When Entering the Workforce is Your First Step

If you plan to begin working immediately after graduation, this section will help you get started. It might be a full-time job to give you time to better figure out your long-term plan, or a part-time gig to help you pay for college.

You may also want to consider opportunities for apprenticeships or internships:

Apprenticeships are “on the job,” paid training that offer you the chance to learn a skill or trade while working. Apprenticeships can last anywhere from one to four years. The best way to find an apprenticeship is to reach out to companies you are interested in working for to determine if they offer apprenticeships. Most labor unions (plumbers, pipefitters, electrical, HVAC, etc.) offer excellent apprenticeship programs. You can also search for apprenticeships by location at www.apprenticeship.gov/apprenticeship-finder.

Internships give you the opportunity to gain work experience in your field of interest. Most frequently, internships are available to high school or college students. They may be paid or unpaid, and students may have the opportunity to earn class credit for their work. Your college advisor may be able to help you identify internship opportunities in your field.

Whichever option you’re headed for, you’ll find valuable resources in the coming pages.

Most jobs that you apply for will require either a resume or application, or perhaps both. Use the form on the next page to help you get organized. In the pages after that, you’ll find tips for creating your resume and cover letter, along with samples of each.

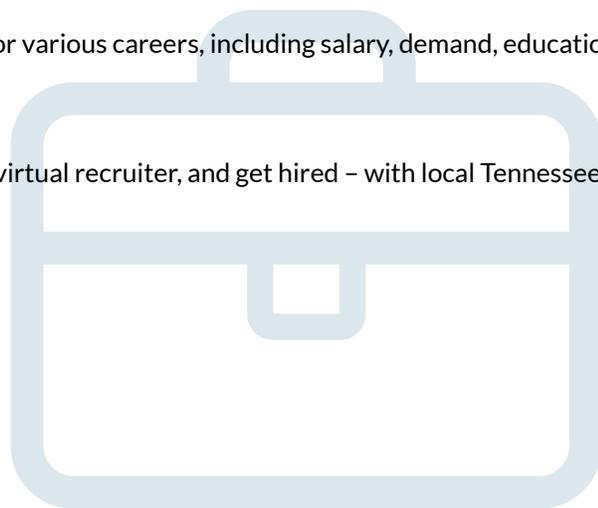

On the last page of this section, you will find a table for tracking your job applications – a helpful tool to ensure nothing falls through the cracks.

If you’re not sure what type of job to pursue, here are some Web sites that might help:

www.CollegeforTN.org - Explore your interests, values, skills, learning styles, and your personality traits and research the careers that match you.

www.BLS.gov - Provides information on the outlook for various careers, including salary, demand, educational requirements, etc.

www.jobs4tn.gov - Find a job, post a résumé, set up a virtual recruiter, and get hired – with local Tennessee jobs.

Creating a Resume

Both the content and format of your resume are important. It doesn't matter how great your work or life history is- if your resume is poorly formatted, hard to follow, or has typos, you won't be considered for employment. The sample provided on the next page is one clear, well-organized example you can follow.

The Basic Elements of a Resume

Heading: Include your name, address, email address and phone number. Make it stand out and make an impression by using a large, bold font. Make sure your email is professional (not starwarsfan@hotmail.com or crzychik@aol.com, for example).

Education: List all degrees completed or in progress. As a high school student, include your GPA if it is 3.0 or above, and list courses that reflect your work ethic and high aspirations, such as AP or dual enrollment courses and any courses relevant to the position for which you are applying. After you complete your college degree, do not include your high school information.

Work Experience: Include your job title, the employer, the location (city and state, at minimum), and the dates of employment for each job listed. Include a brief description of your achievements/responsibilities. Ideally, paid work and unpaid work (community service) are listed separately.

Achievements: Optional - List any honors or awards that you have received. Make sure to include the name of the organization that bestowed the honor/award and the date. If including scholarships, only include those based on merit, not financial need.

Activities: Optional - List any activities that you have participated in during high school. (e.g. clubs or organizations, sports, etc.). If you have held any leadership positions, make sure to list those, too!

Personal References: Be sure to get permission from anyone you use as a reference before using their name, and provide them with a copy of your resume. Do not use relatives as references. References can be on a separate sheet of paper, formatted just like your resume.

CREATE A RESUME IN COLLEGEFORTN.ORG

CollegeforTN.org allows all users to create and save a resume. You can add goal statements, work, and academic achievements, and then download or print a copy to provide to your employer, college, or high school recommendation letter writer. Creating a Cover Letter

If you have the opportunity to add a cover letter to an employment application, do it! It gives the employer a better sense of your communication skills, as well as a sense of your personality and enthusiasm for the job. Some employers require a cover letter.

This section provides tips for writing an excellent cover letter.

The Basic Elements of a Cover Letter

- 1. Greeting: Address your cover letter to the proper person.
- 2. Opening: Write a personable, inviting opening paragraph that highlights how your skills are a perfect fit for the job.
- 3. Hook: Highlight your achievements as they relate to the job for which you're applying.
- 4. Skills: Highlight additional relevant skills, such as computer languages or certifications.
- 5. Close: Briefly recap your strengths as a candidate and include your contact information.

Note - If a cover letter is required to apply for a job and you don't include one, your resume or application, no matter how good, will not even be considered.

Customer Service Manager
Acme, Inc.

Sometown, TN 85000

Re: Customer Service Representative Opening (Ref. ID: CS300)

Dear Ms. West:

I was excited to see your opening for a customer service representative, and I hope to be invited for an interview.

I recently graduated from high school, where I was a member of the Beta Club for two years. Beta Club members plan and complete at least one service project each month, and through those projects I gained considerable experience working with and for people from all walks of life.

After school and on weekends, for more than two years, I have been working in positions that require exceptional customer service skills. At McDonalds, I was awarded the “I Care” Customer Service Award after just three months in the position. At Walgreens, because of my fluency in Spanish, I am regularly called upon to assist Spanish-speaking customers. Based upon the posting for this position, I believe you will find my skills in this area very useful to your company.

Although I have not been out of high school long, in the part-time positions I have held, as my supervisors will attest, I have already demonstrated the ability to resolve a variety of issues (such as billing disputes and dissatisfied or angry customers), and I consistently met all goals set by my employers. I have also demonstrated a strong sense of responsibility and maturity as evidenced by my successful completion of rigorous AP courses, leadership roles in extracurricular activities, and my high GPA (3.37).

In addition to my work experience, I gained considerable customer service and communication skills during my tenure as secretary of the Reading Is Fundamental (RIF) Club at my high school. In that role, I regularly contacted elementary schools and nonprofit, after school programs for youth to discuss possibilities for collaboration. After identifying ways in which our goals overlapped and how working together could be mutually beneficial to our organizations, I worked with the RIF sponsor and other officers to work out the important details to ensure success.

I also bring to the table strong computer proficiencies in Microsoft Word, Excel, PowerPoint and Access. I am confident my comfort with computers and various database operations will, I, allow me to quickly learn any proprietary software your company may use. Please see the accompanying resume for details of my experience and education.

I am confident that I can offer you the customer service, communication, and problem-solving skills you are seeking. I will follow up with you in a few days to answer any preliminary questions you may have. In the meantime, you may reach me at (928) 555-5555 to schedule an interview. Thank you for your time—I look forward to learning more about this opportunity!

Sincerely,

Jessica Fletcher

Glossary

There are a lot of acronyms and confusing terms on the road to college. Here are a few that you might be wondering about. If there's one you don't see listed here, check with your college/career counselor for assistance.

2+2 programs: A postsecondary pathway in which students begin at a community college where they complete general educational requirements over two or three years and then transfer to a university (for the remaining one or two years) to complete a bachelor's degree.

ACT/SAT: Standardized college entrance exams. Many colleges and universities ask for ACT or SAT scores as part of the application process. ACT stands for American College Testing. SAT stands for Scholastic Assessment Test.

Admission: Notification from the college to which you applied that you are accepted. Students must respond by the given deadline to inform the college if they will accept the offer. Students accepted to multiple schools will want to compare their financial aid packages to help them decide which school to attend.

Advisor: A college staff member or professor who helps a student plan and complete a course of study at a college or university.

Application: A form that must be filled out to be considered for entry into a university, community college, or technical school to be considered for a scholarship or grant; and, in many cases, to be considered for a job.

Associate Degree: A degree granted after successful completion of a course of study requiring approximately 60 credits, typically by a community or junior college. Full-time community college students taking 15 credits per semester can generally finish an associate degree in two years (also known as AA, AS, or AAS degree, short for Associate of Arts, Associate of Science, and Associate of Applied Science.)

ASVAB: A test to determine qualification for enlistment in the U.S. Armed Forces. It stands for Armed Services Vocational Aptitude Battery.

Award Letter: Notice from a school of the amount and type of financial aid that the school is willing and able to provide a student.

Bachelor's Degree: A degree earned for a course of study that normally requires 120 to 130 credits, involving specific classes related to the student's major. Full-time students ideally complete a bachelor's degree in four years, although changing majors, transferring institutions, taking fewer than 15 credit hours per semester, and/or taking courses that don't count toward one's declared major can make it take longer (also known as BA or BS, short for Bachelor of Arts and Bachelor of Science.)

Certificate: An official document attesting to a particular fact or accomplishment. In the postsecondary realm, students complete a series of specified courses, and sometimes an internship, and typically pass a test to obtain certificates in specific trades or areas of expertise required to work in those fields. Examples include welding, medical technology, auto mechanics, massage therapy, and court stenography.

Community College: A public postsecondary institution (Motlow State, for example) that offers courses to residents in the surrounding area. Students may attend community colleges to obtain associate degrees or technical certificates, or may take courses there toward a bachelor's degree before transferring to a four-year university (2+2 pathway). Students can also take courses to enhance their skills in an area, or just for fun.

Cost of Attendance (COA): The total cost of going to college, including tuition, fees, room and board, books, transportation, and personal expenses.

Deferment: A period in which payment is not required. In the postsecondary realm, students can obtain deferment on paying their enrollment deposit as well as on paying interest and/or principal on student loans. Deferments do not last forever; eventually these payments must be made.

Deferred Action for Childhood Arrivals (DACA) Program: A kind of administrative relief from deportation. This policy allows young children (under the age of 16) who came to the United States without documentation, and have been educated by U.S. school systems, the opportunity to remain in the U.S. by following specific guidelines.

Early Action: When a student applies for admission to a college by an early deadline (before the regular admission deadline) and receives notice of acceptance, denial, or deferment, with no obligation to the university to enroll.

Early Decision: When a student applies for admission to a college by an early deadline (before the regular admission deadline), with the understanding that if accepted, the student must enroll in that school. Students should apply for early decision only to their first choice school.

Expected Family Contribution (EFC): The portion of a family's financial resources that should be available to pay for college, based on a federal formula using the information on the FAFSA (Free Application for Federal Student Aid).

FAFSA: The Free Application for Federal Student Aid is an online form submitted annually by current and prospective college students (undergraduate and graduate) in the United States to determine eligibility for student financial aid. Students who are eligible to file the FAFSA should complete it every year.

Federal Student Aid (FSA) ID: A user name and password used by current and prospective students and their parents to log into U.S. Department of Education Web sites including the FAFSA Web site. The ID is used to sign documents electronically (it has the same legal status as a written signature.)

Fee Waiver: Permission to not pay a fee, based on meeting some requirement or condition. In the postsecondary realm, waivers of college application fees and ACT or SAT fees are often available for students based on financial need.

Financial Aid Package: The amount and types of federal, state, and college aid that a college/university offers to a student it has accepted for admission, to offset the cost of attendance at their school. This is also referred to as an Award Letter. Depending on the package, sometimes it can be cheaper for a student to attend an expensive school because more aid is offered to offset the cost. This is why it is important to apply to the schools you want to attend, even if you don't think you can afford it. There are different types of aid available including loans, work-study, scholarships, and grants.

Four-Year University: A postsecondary college/university that offers undergraduate (bachelors) degrees. Many four-year institutions also offer graduate (master's) degrees.

Student Aid Report (SAR): The SAR summarizes the information included on the Free Application for Federal Student Aid (FAFSA). The SAR provides the Expected Family Contribution (EFC), which is used to determine whether a student is eligible for a federal Pell Grant and other federal aid.

Student Loan: Money a student borrows to help pay for college, which must be paid back. Subsidized loans are offered to students who qualify financially as determined by the FAFSA. The federal government pays the interest while the student is in college. There are also unsubsidized loans where interest begins accruing as soon as the loan is accepted.

They offer students accelerated, focused learning opportunities that can help better prepare them to succeed in college.

These programs generally take no more than two years to complete. Tennessee Colleges of Applied Technology (TCATs) are examples of this kind of school.

Transcript: An official academic record from a specific school which lists when you attended, the courses you have completed, grades, and sometimes test scores. Universities, colleges, and technical schools usually require high school transcripts be submitted as part of the application process.

Students receive compensation in the form of a paycheck, much like a traditional job. Students must submit the FAFSA to be considered for work-study positions.
